

Faith Group Questions

In the Beginning (Part 3): Human Relationships

1. Genesis reveals that before the fall into sin, we were designed to long for the company of other people. What did sin change, and what did sin not change?
2. What encouragement would you give to someone who is feeling lonely? Or, what's the best encouragement someone gave to you during a time of loneliness?
3. God specifically designed male and female in a way that they would provide cooperative compatibility with one another. How can you avoid stereotyping genders while still celebrating their differences?
4. Read Genesis 2:22-25. Scripture teaches that marriage is not something you gradually or accidentally drift into. It is a covenant that, when made, means you leave your family of origin and are united to your spouse. What can happen when the covenant aspect of marriage is missing?
5. Genesis teaches that we were designed to long for the company of other people. Share one person whom you could bless this week with your company. When and how will you reach out?
